Spanish Fleet at Porto Rico—Spain May Send Her Fleet to North Atlantic Waters.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, May 9—Extraordinary measures have been adopted by the administration to mobilize fifty thousand volunteers at Chiamaugo immediately. The cabinet this morning discussed the proposition for the immediate invasion of Cuba with the volunteers at Chickamauga, augmented with sixteen thousand United States regulars.

The determination to land troops in Cuba is a result of Admiral Dewey's overwhelming victory at Manila. The government believes that the Army of Invasion will be backed by Admiral Sampson's fleet and that the Cubans will be liberated by midsummer. Transports sufficient to land sixty thousand troops in Cuba have been chartered by the government and are awaiting orders. The government intends to land the regulars this week and the volunteers next week.

Major General Coppinger arrived in Washington this morning from Mobile to consult the administration. Major General Shafter will lead the invasion and will be followed by Major Generals Coppinger, Wade and Lee.

The Yale asked the names of all the vessels the schooner had passed.

During the meeting between the vessels one of the crew of the Yale said three big American steamers are watching the Virgin and Mona passages and the Haytian waters for Spaniards. The Yale knew nothing whatever of the alleged engagement between the American cruiser Montgomery and Spanish battleship Vizcaya.

THE WEBSTERIAN SOCIETY

Gives a Delightful Entertainment at Old Guilford.

Correspondence Telegram.

Guilford College, May 8th. The Websterian literary society, of Guilford College, is held in high esteem by all who know anything about what it has done, what it is doing, what it will do.

Not very long ago the members honored the young ladies society, the Philagorean, with an invitation to visit their regular meeting held on Friday evening May 6th. After accepting the invitation our hopes were high and our anticipations bright for an enjoyable time. At the appointed hour we were all seated in their tastefully furnished hall and the regular business of the society was entered upon.

We could but be impressed with the executive ability and consideration for parliamentary rulings which was manifested; and a quiet dignity characterized all that was done.

A delightful program had been prepared. The hearty applause which followed when the young men with the stringed instruments gave appropriate selections testified to the fact that it was indeed a treat. We laughed heartily at a paper containing many local hits and witty illusions. A paper on the present aspect of war, was up-to-date and full of facts which showed that the speakers was acquainted with this subject. We cannot tell the genuine pleasure and profit which was afforded by an able debate on the annexation of territory. The arguments were straight and as each orator presented his side of the question it seemed that by the magic of his power we were compelled to see things in just that light.

An opportunity was given for the visitors to speak and each one was glad for an opportunity to express their appreciation for the pleasure of the evening. When one young lady expressed her sentiments that she had always thought the Websterians did up things about right but now she knew it, her words were met with a hearty response by every Philagorean. After the regular exercises were over we were invited into a room where delightful refreshments were temptingly arranged. This was not on the program, but the pleasant surprise made it only the more enjoyable.

All too soon this evening came to a close and we all recognized that our visit to this society would live in memory of one of the charming occasions of our study at Guilford College. We congratulate the public that on May 20th an entertainment by the "Webbs" will be given to which all are cordially invited and we are glad to know that many will have the privilege to enjoy what only a few enjoyed on last Friday evening. Three cheers for the "Webbs."

Warned of Spanish Agents.

San Francisco, Cal., May 8—It is stated that the Government has been warned that the Spanish are intending to inflict great damage in San Francisco and vicinity, even if they have no fleets and armies here to do it with.

The information is to the effect that Spanish spies will be relied upon to work havoc on this side of the continent, and it is greatly worrying both the Government officials and local authorities.

Measures were taken today to guard against such a contingency as far as possible, and the first result is the doubling of the guards at all places particularly exposed to such attacks, especially where work for the Government is going on.

Resolutions of Gratitude.

At a meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's church, held May 8th, the following resolutions were adopted.

Rea, the World correspondent at Puerto Plata cables that the captain of the German steamship Bolivia states that while at Haytien yesterday an American cruiser entered that port, saluted and coaled despite Spanish protests. THE COLONEL AND THE TAX COLLECTOR.

We have observed that the objection to co-operation, when brought down to a fine point is not principle, but office. The objectors must admit that it is the surest and quickest way to unite the white men of North Carolina and put the principles of the democratic party into execution, but when cornered and asked why they oppose it they say they can't vote for populists. In their blind zeal to have all the offices filled by democrats they will lose both office and principle. If the populists are willing to help us put our own principles into execution, we ought not to let a few offices stand in the way of so desirable a consummation. It is a small matter to the mass of people who records deeds and collects taxes, but they are vitally interested in legislation that will give them good government and more money.—Webster's Weekly.

Col. Webster should be canonized as the only patriot in the history of his country whom the tax collector could not make very, very unhappy. Just how the colonel figures it out that it "is not principle but office" that stands in the way of fusion is not very clear. The colonel's logic would seem to be as unique as his indifference to the tax collector. As a matter of fact few conservative democrats expect that the party, standing alone, can win any very sweeping victory this fall. It is not their craving for all the offices but their desire that the democratic party shall have a policy somewhat more stable and a future somewhat more honorable than the one that may be bought bi-ennially from Mr. Marion Butler and his ilk.

"If the populists are willing to help us put our own principles into execution," says the colonel, "we ought not to let a few offices stand in the way of so desirable a consummation." And so we will not. But as a matter of fact populists insist that in the fusion it is their principles which are to dominate. The advocates of fusion have all along either misunderstood or willfully misrepresented the position of those who are opposed to fusion.

If it were demonstrated that fusion means, a union in good faith, and permanently on common principles of the two parties not a democrat in the state would raise his voice against it. But if it is to be a mere temporary arrangement to feed those in both parties whose hunger for office is too sharp to brook further delay then all self-respecting democrats, and populists too for that matter, will spurn the proposition with contempt. Once more let it be repeated that it is not to union with the populists to secure clean government that democrats object but to dicker with the slysters and political free-lances to whom populists seem to have committed their political fortunes.

It was left for the Voice, a pretended prohibition organ, to do the most contemptible thing of the season. At a time when the United States was going to war purely for the sake of humanity and when, if ever, Americans might justly feel a patriotic pride in their country, the Voice could find nothing better to do than to adorn its front page with an immense cut of Uncle Sam with his hands besmirched. This is by no means the first yellow thing of which the Voice has been guilty. Pretending to wage a fight for home and humanity, it has within the year grossly misrepresented and basely traduced men of high standing in school and state, nay, it has gone farther and intentionally fomented strife and promoted division in the church. There is no higher cause to which a journal may devote itself than that of temperance and sobriety, but when in pre-tending devotion to such a cause it descends to the contemptible trickery of the sensational journals in order to make money, as the Voice is doing, it should be unmasked.

We have been told that there is a time for everything. We have also been given to understand that there are proper and improper ways of doing things. The prediction is ventured that this unfortunate exhibition of bad taste and worse patriotism has done more harm than all the homilies of the Voice can undo in a year.

BATTLE GROUND EXERCISES.

A Full Account of the Unveiling of Gillie's Monument.

With the exception of unpropitious weather the celebration at the Guilford Battle Ground was one of the most instructive, delightful and successful which has ever taken place there in the twelve years of its existence, and to the patriotic and intelligent young gentlemen students of Oak Ridge Institute the Battle Ground Company expresses its gratitude for such a noble recognition of its birthday. The company came into existence on the 6th day of May, 1886, in one of the parlors of the Benbow House, in the City of Greensboro, N. C.

Twelve years have elapsed since that day, when it was humble in its pretensions and very limited in its means, but it had hope, energy, and perseverance and pluck behind it. It has now developed, expanded and grown into one of the institutions of the state. The City of Greensboro joined its liberal and public spirited citizens by taking a liberal share of stock, the state followed with an annual appropriation, then was added the noble, generous contribution of the Winston monument by that eminent North Carolinian of blessed memory, Ex-Governor Thomas M. Holt, an act which will ever link his name with the cause of American liberty. Then congress enabled the company to erect the Hooper-Penn monument, now so conspicuous and grand, which attracts the view of the thousands who pass so near it daily on the C. F. & Y. V. railway.

All these were perpetuating the heroic deeds of men of nerve and brain whose maturity and experience enabled them to do the deeds of daring or to enable mankind with eloquence and wisdom. But here was a lad, who probably without learning or prestige or political ambition or "reward," or the hope of reward, devoted his young life to the cause of the country he loved—who exchanged home for the hardships of a winter campaign and exposed himself to the many dangers to which the lead of "Harry Lee" would naturally bring to his lot in life. He was a boy who loved music and a horse and he combined them together to do what he could for the independence of the colonies. He sounded the charge and was in the thickest of the fight to cheer with his bugle blasts the struggling comrades who were around him. He was too young to bear a sword—he was too generous and unselfish to have fled from danger and leave another to incur its risks and to that noble spirit he sacrificed his life.

How appropriate it was that the boys of Oak Ridge Institute should have had admiration for this noble example in life and seek to impress it upon their youthful associates in the state. This monument sprang from their hearts and brains as well as from their pocket books. The example of Gillies, the bugler boy, is now chiseled in granite and perpetuated in imperishable bronze. It is beautiful, touching, inspiring—it speaks to the passer-by and invokes him to pause and study its lesson. It is an ever present admonition to perform the duties which Providence or circumstance impose upon us. It was therefore among the "eternal fitness of things" that the students of Oak Ridge should have gained the admiration and sympathy of the young ladies, who charmed them on this occasion by their smiles and encouraged them with applause and patriotic and inspiring songs. The Normal and G. F. "girls," as they call themselves, were out with banners and beautiful attire and attractive smiles to cheer Oak Ridge and its colors of red and blue, which floated from flag poles and tenements. Its deeds were emblazoned on conspicuous cards all over the grounds and the the Messrs. Holt were greeted everywhere with welcomes and congratulations—they deserved it all.

They have not only taught the 'boys' by precept and example in the splendid school which they have built up by genius and labor; but they and their "boys" have given enduring lessons on this battle ground to all mankind. Oak Ridge scored a magnificent success which will ever redound to its honor and glory.

The young speakers, R. T. Barnhill, and W. L. Griddlebaugh, who represented the two societies of Oak Ridge, acquitted themselves handsomely; graceful, self possessed and well taught, they delivered addresses worthy of any senior class in any institution of learning in the state. They were worthy representatives of a worthy and noble institute.

Z. V. TAYLOR.

This brilliant son of the County of Guilford, a graduate of Oak Ridge, destined hereafter to be one of the leading men of North Carolina, delivered a finished, ornate, literary address worthy of any of the great speakers who have preceded him on former occasions. It inspired the soul, melted the eyes to tears and was indeed a "feast of reason." No one need ask hereafter who is "Zeb Taylor." He has made his mark and he will pursue his "high calling" to the honor and leadership which awaits him.

[The Hon. John R. Webster's speech was printed in full in Saturdays paper.]

MRS. HUNDLEY'S POEM

On the Bugler Boy was read impressively by Professor Martin Holt. It was listened to with a hush of silence which indicated that the whole audience was feeling the tender pathos which inspired it. Mrs. Hundley had a patriotic subject, herself an ardent patriot, and naturally the most exalted patriotism breathed in every line of her poem. Truly hath it been said: "Poeta nascitur non fit."

Beyond cavil Mrs. Hundley was born a poetess and the divine afflatus still inspires her heart.

THE OLD NORTH STATE

was called for by the audience as the doxology of the occasion and the young ladies responded with the spirit and the understanding. It was grand and clapping of hands and hurrahs, accompanied the last lines of this inspiring song. The band caught it up and replied with Dixie with a will. Then came hurrah for Dewey and Cuba, and the assembly were called to the unveiling of the monument, the clouds were dark and the rain was about to descend but no one heeded its approach. All marched to the monument which was veiled in white and decorated with the Oak Ridge colors of red and blue. Dixie again and the following young ladies dressed in pure white with the blue and red decorations pulled the string and the monument arose from beneath: Miss Blanche Capel, Greensboro Female College, Miss Myrtle Holt, Salem Female Academy, Miss Mamie McGehee, State Normal College and Miss Blanche Holt, of Oak Ridge Institute.

The crowd then dispersed amid the strains of the Old North State Forever. The cornet band from High Point is well trained and composed of clever young gentlemen and discoursed fine music during the day. We may hear them again on the 4th of July.

Emperor William's Speech.

Berlin May 7.—The Emperor in his speech from the throne upon the occasion of the closing of the last session of the Reichstag today, expressed pride that he had been able to place the German fleet upon a firm and permanent basis. The financial situation of the empire, he said, was especially favorable. The Government would fully act up to its duties in the matter of the observance of neutrality in the Spanish-American war, but would would protect German commerce and navigation from any possible injury.

So Tired! So Tired! Chronic Dyspepsia!

For ten years I had been a severe sufferer from chronic dyspepsia, which was pronounced incurable. I was completely run down, and in the summer season was not able to do anything and spent a great part of the time lying down. I could not touch meat of any kind, or any solid food whatever, as I could not digest it at all and had to live on crackers and light diet. I was very nervous, and could not get any natural sleep, I was restless. I suffered all the time from chronic dysentery, which kept me weak and down. That was my condition when I determined as a last resort to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I had tried so many treatments and so many patent medicines without benefit that I had no faith in anything and had almost made up my mind not to try another thing, when Mrs. Person came to my house last April and induced me to try her Remedy. I bought a dozen bottles. Felt no relief whatever until I was on the fourth bottle, when I knew I was getting better. I became stronger, got so I could sleep well and there was no need for me to lie down in the day time. I took twenty-two bottles before I stopped. My digestion is now perfect, and I can eat meat, vegetables, and anything else I want, and as much as I want. When I commenced the Remedy I weighed 98 pounds, now I weigh 115 pounds. Dysentery perfectly cured, and it is all owing to Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. It is everything claimed for it.

General News in a Nutshell.

An English statistician says that Queen Victoria is now sovereign over one continent, 100 peninsulas, 500 promontories, 1000 rivers and 10,000 islands.

The Milwaukee Journal calls attention to the evolution of the word Yankee.
First a Yankee was a New Englander, then a soldier of the Union army, and now the term is applied by the foreign press to all citizens of the United States.

A crust of crystallized Glauber salts a foot thick has been found on the bottom of Karabougas Bay, the large inlet on the eastern side of the Caspian Sea. The bay is nearly opposite Batoun, whence fuel can be easily obtained; and factories for the production of sodium sulphate are to be established soon on a large scale.

The latest catalogue of the University of Chicago shows that that institution has the largest proportion of female students of any of the great universities in the country. The total number of students in attendance last term was 1156, of whom 697 were men and 459 were women. Omitting the divinity school, there are 337 men and 312 women in the undergraduate department.

The Madrid papers seem to experience no difficulty in securing accurate information concerning the situation in this country, as the following report, furnished to the Imparcial by its Washington correspondent, clearly indicates: "The States which were counted on to furnish the men for the war find themselves handicapped by threatened Indian uprisings. The regular army has been withdrawn and the savages have already taken to the warpath. In the States of Ohio, Illinois and Iowa the citizens have already been called out to protect their western frontiers from the raids of the wild men."

INTELLECTUAL ANTS.

THEY ARE SAID TO BE THE MOST IN-TELLIGENT OF INSECTS.

They Have Political and Social Organizations That May Be Likened to Those of Man—Some Work, While Others Do Not Labor, but Live Sumptuously.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways and be wise," said Solomon over 3,000 years ago, and the researches of modern naturalists have only confirmed the excellence of the wise man's advice in holding up the ant as an example for man, for among in vertebrate animals the ant holds the same position that man does among the vertebrate. The ant is the most intellectual of all insects.

Ants are truly wonderful insects.
They build houses, train soldiers, en-slave ants and other insects inferior to themselves; they are capable agriculturalists, for they keep a species of milk kine, clear the ground, sow grain, reap and gather into barns. They are social insects, and in many respects are examples in miniature of man. They have their monarchs, pride themselves on their aristocracy, and also indulge to excess in intoxicating liquors.

Ants are divided into three classes—males, females (or queens) and workers.
The two former are winged, and their sole duty in life is to multiply their species. Immediately after pairing the male ants die, and the queens, renouncing the pomp and vanities of this world, henceforward devote themselves to the duties of maternity. To the lot of the workers falls all the work. Some of them are told off to wait on the queens, whom they feed and care for with the greatest attention. Each batch of eggs, as soon as they are laid, are carried away and deposited in the hatching chambers open to the rays of the sun. The workers nurse the ant babies when they appear, putting them in the warm upper galleries by day and removing them at night into the snugest lower chambers.

After several months' careful nursing and feeding, the larva passes into the pupa stage, and spins itself into a cocoon, from which it emerges a full grown ant. It is these cocoons that are sold as "ants' eggs;" the real eggs are so minute that even the ants themselves could not pick them up in their mandibles by a natural gum. Queen ants, according to Sir John Lubbock, live as long as ten years, while Dr. Dallinger states that worker ants live from four to six years. The queen ants are treated with the utmost reverence, and while the corpse of a worker ant is usually immediately disposed of the body of a queen is often preserved as long as 18 months after its death.

The ant has three simple and two compound eyes, the latter consisting of from 250 to 1,200 lenses each. In passing, it may be mentioned that the ordinary house fly has 4,000 lenses, the gadfly 11,000 and the dragon fly 20,000 lenses to each eye. Physically, as well as intellectually, ants are the giants of the insect world; they can easily carry even ten times their own weight.

The ant houses are most marvelous examples of construction. Part of the nest is above the ground and part below it. These houses are often 40 stories in height, and are built of stones, leaves, sticks and earth. The subterranean part is honeycombed into passages and cells and all the tunnels and galleries run into one common center—the public hall of the ant colony. The government is a republic, and various colonies have been known to mass together for the purpose of defense. A Swiss scientist has discovered a regular empire of ants, covering an area of 200 square yards, and containing 200 colonies or republics with a population of 40,000,000 ants.

There are many species of ants which are incapable of managing their own nests or of rearing their young and these in consequence impress into their service the workers of other species of ants and leave all the rough work to their captives. Periodically the master ants set off on a slave hunting expedition. They find out the nest of a special ant whose aid they need. They raid it and, overcoming its defenders, enter and bear off triumphantly the pupae. These are carried to the masters' nest, where they are speedily hatched, and knowing no other home and forced by instinct to work they toil industriously for their masters. So lazy and dependent upon their willing slaves do the master ants become that at length they are unable to feed themselves. Food has been placed before these lords of the ant creation, and they would not even take the trouble to eat. Then some slave ants were introduced. They tidied up the place and fed their masters.

The ants have some method of knowing members of their own tribe. If an ant is put into a strange colony, it is instantly killed as an intruder, while if one is taken from its home and restored to it after a long lapse of time it is immediately welcomed and recognized.
Sir John Lubbock took 12 ants, 6 from each of two different colonies, and made them drunk. Then they were all put back into one of the colonies. The ants inspected them, carried away their companions and took care of them until they recovered, while the foreigners were dropped into the water. A large dead fly was put on the table, and one ant immediately went over and pulled at it, but found himself unable to move it. He then went away, and speedily returned with three companions, and by their united efforts the fly was carried away.

It has long been known that some species of ants are in the habit of acting in exactly the same manner as man in keeping insect cows for the sake of the milk they supply. The ordinary green fly, or aphid, is to the ant what the cow is to man. This green fly is capable of exuding from two nipplelike projections a sort of liquid gum, of which ants are extremely fond.

A Travesty on Modern Fads.

"My Friend From India," the title of the play to be presented at the Academy of Music tonight by the Danville Dramatic Club, is one of the most successful comedies presented in many years. The situations are extremely ludicrous, the lines and dialogue clean and witty. The thread of the plot is a travesty on modern ideas of the 400—burlesquing the vain attempts of many who have money solely to buy their social aspirations. There are many happy hits at modern fads and fancies.

The Danville Dramatic Club is said to give this comedy almost equally as well as professionals.

DEATH OF MRS. BUMPASS.

This Holy Woman Passed Away Peacefully to Her Reward.

Mrs. F. M. Bumpass died yesterday at 12 o'clock at her home in this city and was buried this afternoon in Greene Hill cemetery. Funeral services were held in the West Market street Methodist church this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. S. H. Hilliard pastor of the Methodist church in Reidsville.

Mrs. Bumpass was seventy-eight years of age. Her last illness became alarming only during the last few weeks when hope of her ultimate recovery was abandoned. Although the pain she suffered was severe no word of discontent was ever spoken. Her end was peaceful and joyful.

In the death of Mrs. Bumpass the Methodist church in North Carolina loses one of its most consecrated, holy and loyal members. Her life has been one consecrated to her Master's service and the gentle influence of her christian life has been felt throughout the state.

Yesterday's Runaway.

The interest in the account of Admiral Sampson's Sunday services held at Porto Rico was divided with that in a runaway that occurred yesterday. Two colored women were driving Mr. E. P. Wharton's horse to church when the shaft became unfastened and fell on the horse's hind legs. This frightened him and he started to run, dragging the woman driving over the dashboard and throwing the other one out of the buggy. Neither of the women was seriously injured but both were badly scared and a little bruised.

The horse ran down Lindsay, Church and South Elm streets with the shafts knocking on the stones and lines lashing the horse. He was finally stopped and caught beyond the Southern depot.
